Comments: This is a terrible idea! Forest Service land has been a sacred commodity and should continue to be respected as such! The very idea that a corporation would have this opportunity to leverage their company on the backs of land supported and maintained by the tax-paying citizens of Montana is shameful and I can't hardly believe this is even being seriously considered.

Montana is one of the last places to get into the wilderness and not have to encounter corporate America.

Please, please do not move this forward.

We love our state the way it is. Don't turn it into California. I have seen what that looks like and it's awful the way money and corporate greed has twisted a beautiful state into what it is today.

We want Montana to remain "the last best place."

Honor what the citizens want on this one.

Respectfully,
