Comments: Please don't let out of state development ruin this area. Take a look at what has happened around Big Sky if you want to see what out of state money has done. Locals can no longer afford to live where they work, the roads are jammed with construction traffic, and local people can't even hire people to work on their homes because everyone in the trade industry is getting rich quick of the construction boom. The Gallatin River now has algae booms and the Yellowstone club leaked raw sewage into the Gallatin River. Beautiful places like Holland Lake should be enjoyed by the public in their natural state, allowing out of state companies to build giant lodges only takes away from the natural beauty of the place and only benefits those who have wealth. Montana is special because we still have wild places. Don't let this area become some place for rich to develop.
