Comments: I'm writing because Holland Lake, as it currently is, is near and dear to my heart. I have been there during all of the seasons and love them all for their own unique qualities, but something they all share is a rustic charm and a sense of access to wilderness. Building new and larger facilities would ruin the Montana character of Holland Lake, which is the reason so many of us enjoy going there, and would not serve the interested of most local and state residents.
