Comments: I have had the privilege of attending a family reunion at Holland lake yearly since the 70s. It is one of the last places with geologic character and grandeur that has not been sold off to a major moneyed interest. How much do the people of Montana have to give up to satisfy the greed of corporate america? Holland lake is one of the last holdouts in Montana. Let's keep its natural beauty and not just send her down the river to the greed driven corporate world.
