Comments: Here we are again, another useless comment box on why we do not want more rich people. We are still a state that values hard work, rewarded with beauty from where we live. As if Corona Virus wasn't bad enough for making out of state people move here, now the secret has gotten out and they want to start taking over our national parks, our playgrounds, our heritage. As montanas we promised each other we wouldn't change the things that make this state great. But here we are. More rich people wave a check around and suddenly the state will give them everything they require. The wealthy have already completely taken over bozeman, big sky, and littered the surrounding mountains in No Trespassing signs, and multi million dollar "cabins". They have their area, please do not give them more. Let the locals have a chance. Don't turn our Forest Service into a government funded Yellowstone Club. We the people are no longer taking kindly to this and you can expect resistance from the locals. Keep Montana what it is, and let California and New York be the riches paradise.
