Comments: POWDR is proposing an absolutely preposterous makeover of Holland lake. It is one of those places where people go to find peace and comfort, not to fine dine and spend money just to look cool and flaunt their lifestyle. The only people we need visiting the lake are those who currently do, to enjoy pristine wild places.

This lake is also an important training grounds for the study of a near endangered bird species, the black swift. Will we really allow them to come in and throw off the natural balance we currently have at Holland lake? I hope this project gets some serious thought and consideration before causing the next big black eye on our landscape. Thanks for your consideration.
