Comments: Please, no, to the Holland Lake development project. Please be the catalyst in slowing the development of our state down so we can continue to experience and treasure the things we love about it in the first place. Our resources deserve to be treasured not exploited. Once it's gone it's gone. Montanans can do rustic; we need to preserve some of these spaces before we recognize in hindsight that we lost something we can't get back. Anyone who purchases this land/project should be held to strict parameters around restoration rather than development. If it needs to be torn down, please restrict any projects to recreating what was there rather than changing the clientele and therefore community. These things have a trickle down effect that we continue to ignore at our own demise.

Sincerely, Jessica Sauls
