Comments: Holland Lake is one of the best kept secrets in our state, and to bring in a big corporation like POWDR to develop the land, bring in the rich, and box out local Montanans would be wrong in all aspects. There's a reason you don't see local Montanans at Big Sky, Moonlight, Whitefish, Paws Up, the list goes on. We, local Montanans, can't afford those luxurious places, and choose to spend our time in places like Holland Lake where they haven't been tainted by tourism.

The Seeley Swan Valley does not have the housing, population, or wherewithal to support a giant undertaking like this let alone the wildlife, foliage, water, etc. that will be disturbed and forever changed. When I hike up to the waterfall, I do not want to see another resort amongst the trees of Montana. It's just not what Montana is about. Please keep in mind the thousands of comments against this endeavor. We don't want it. Plain and simple. Thank you for your consideration.
