Comments: The fact that we are allowing big corporations to come in to our state and pollute our land I getting out of control. We've seen what happens when places are turn3d into tourist destinations, look at what's happening to our rivers. The tourist industry is ruining our land, poisoning our health, and punishing those of us who live here year round and love our state. There are plenty of other tourist destinations that is hurting the land here in Montana, why do we need another one? Why is UT being allowed to happen in a protected area? We've seen what happens when people travel less, consume less, and in general do not have "scenic destinations" to go to, things started clearing, the land started healing, and you people want to put something g in that encourages people to travel? How in good conscience could allow that, especially as protectors of our wildlife.
