Comments: Montana is under siege from out-of-staters. I have been a Montana camper, fisherman, and trail rider for over 50 years. In the last several years, I have been unable to camp at any campsites because of the reservations made over the internet by out-of-staters. Many times I've had to just park along the side of the road. The lakes and rivers are nearly impossible to enjoy because of the noise and influx of jet skiers and rude people. To quietly ride your horse in a beautiful Montana forest is unsafe because of the hikers with dogs, cyclists with ear buds roaring down the trails oblivious to their surroundings, and now E bikes.

These people are used to having other people standing close to them. They have no manners and will be in your "personal" space. They more often than not have alot more money than locals so they treat us as underlings. We all know the "Californians" move here and want re-do Montana. Swan Lake residents and the surrounding businesses have made a living before the Holland Lake project and they will continue to survive without it. Why sell out Montana? Enough is enough!!! Do we want to make beautiful Holland Lake a subdivision? No building is as beautiful as a tree.

Ask yourself . . . .Do we need these people in our lives and will this project do anything to make Montana better. I think not.
