Comments: There are a handful of models that this proposal resembles. The National Parks have concessions within the Park system that every so often are reviewed and put thru a bidding process and may change corporate hands as a result of the bid process but the Park Service remains the overseer of the concessions and a fee or percentage of the gross income from the concessions is retained by the Park Service. Standards for service and maintenance are contractual and bind both parties. Im not suggesting the Forest Service engage with this practice as a business endeavor for the future but ther must be a grandfather clause somewhere in this existing shared property a provision for the current lodge. It appears from where i sit an existing revenue for the State Forest Division and opportunity for a responsible private endeavor to inhance amenities for public use at a beautiful location.
