Comments: What an amazing and beautiful place Holland Lake is. From the lack of human built structures to the peace and quiet that surrounds this lake. It's truly representative of what Montana is. I understand the want and desire of those from out of state to enjoy this place. However that experience is marred in a resort environment. It will create not only a scar on the environment that will never go away but completely obliterate one thing that is becoming so rare to experience, noise. I am also very concerned about the environmental impact this will have on animal habitat. The increase in people, the connection between bear aggression and human food waste, & a reduction in the overall quality of life for the local residents. This beauty can be experienced with destroying what little we have left of places like this.
