Comments: Holland Lake is a beautiful small lake. The campground is always full so it is greatly appreciated. If this area is turned into a "resort" by a large corporation from out of state it will be a great loss. I has always appeared to me that those folks from out of state do not appreciate what Montana is all about and only want to "make money" at the expense of giving up our quiet appreciation of public lands. The trail to Holland Falls is well traveled and is well maintained. It is good to "improve" areas of the National Forest but not to destroy or greatly alter the wild areas. They are great to enjoy because they are small and quiet. We love our National Forests and use them all the time. I would hate to see another local area turned into a crowded place for those of us who live and play in our beautiful Montana.
