Comments: The sale of this land and lake will drive more wildlife into populated areas that already exist. It will drive up the cost of living again, which those of us who live in this state can barely afford now. It will not provide the jobs that would be "promised" for any more than temporary/seasonal, and the pay would not be what the people of Montana need to make ends meet. The sale of this area would also destroy the beauty of the area, denying our opportunity to enjoy our state's federal land. Big developers such as those in Utah, do not understand our way of living. They will change everything that does not look like their city life. Montana's people live here to enjoy nature not concrete. Allowing this project and sale to go through will deplete our way of life, our wildlife and our children's lives.
