Comments: Holland lake is a fragile ecosystem. This area deserves a full protection as a unique ecosystem and clearly cannot support such a large intrusion of this development. No study has done to address the impact of the development ; such as the impact of the sewage and water system needs. The access is also an issue as well as potential evacuation if there was a forest fire. A large development cannot be done under such an informal process. Stop now before irreversible harm to the fragile ecosystem has occurred. The lake itself is too small to support these additional people; it is already too crowded.
