Comments: Forest service land plays a critical role of the preservation and conservation of Montana wilderness and history. Holland lake is still a pristine piece of the outdoors at the gates of the Bob Marshall wilderness. It is imperative that future generations experience the unspoiled beauty of our natural Montanan assets. Please do not allow Futher development that enables only a small proportion of wealthy elitists to essentially privatise a place that is naturally available to all Montanans. Enough of the flathead valley and other parts of Montana have become inaccessible to local residents, whose children will never know what solace Montana and our beautiful state and federal lands had to offer. Please consider preserving Holland lake as it is, so that future generations can enjoy it unspoilt just as I was able to and the three generations of my family in Montana before me.
