Comments: i don't live in the state of Montana. but the Forest Service, and Holland Lake Lodge is Grandfathered in, on Federal Land. to sell to an out of state commercial real estate company to destroy a historic, serene vacation destination for Montanans, and visitors from out of state is just disgusting. i live in Florida. Key West, Fl. was once a beautiful tourist destination. but greed, big real estate conglomerates, and what dispicable people call progress, destroys the beauty of such places. for the Forest Service to grant permits to destroy a beautiful place like Holland Lake Lodge, just smells very fishy!!! just my opinion. Montana is a beautiful still open western state. don't destroy it by commercializing the wilderness.
