Comments: It seems like a good idea to upgrade the existing facility, while trying to maintain a similar look and feel. As a 5th generation Montanan on a median income, it seems that many of these resorts are priced outside what a normal Montanan could afford. The existing Holland Lake Lodge at $300+/night is outside my budget, and I don't imagine the new facility would be any cheaper. It would be nice if normal Montanans could afford resorts like this.

I would also ask for more sustainability to be built in ... are they able to capture and use rainfall/graywater? Could renewable energy sources be required? I'm not sure how viable this would be, but wanted to ask.

Thank you for giving us the option to comment.
