Comments: I reject the notion that federally-leased land, much/most of which is in its natural state, should be developed to the extent that is proposed. I think that the best use of this land is to have the least intrusive impact, primarily by local people.

At this point in our history, fossil fuels will be used to provide the energy for development and also for subsequent visits and occupation by "guests." The permits should be denied unless a zero-carbon means of transportation can be arranged to and from the area, and renewable energy sources will be used for the development and operations of the facilities.
