Comments: This is a beautiful, scenic, and secluded area in the heart of Montana. I love that this area is uninhabited and used for nature. I love hiking here, swimming, paddle boarding, and reading my book. I love the absence of city sounds, and the pure state this location is in. More buildings, parking lots and businesses with pollute this area with tourists and excessive human use. This area will become littered with human waste and garbage, destroying its natural beauty and untouched, pristine state. Don't let this beautiful area be destroyed by selfish tourists and out of state invaders. Leave Montana a place of nature. If you want to go to a big city, go to Seattle. If you want to experience nature, go to Yellowstone. Leave Holland lake alone.
