Comments: A destination like what is being proposed will create a multitude of problems, extra traffic on the roads leading to Holland Lake and around it, extra boat and watercraft traffic on the lake, not to mention the pollution caused by that marine traffic (has a possible environmental impact study been conducted yet?).

Then you have the very presence of such a large building in a primitive area would invariably destroy the very thing that draws people there in the first place, serenity. A set up like a camp with a cluster of small cabins would be better, but would still change the wild beauty we love so much.
