Comments: We love getting away for a relaxing camping trip to Holland Lake. It is a beautiful, peaceful, quiet, clean recreation area that is very family friendly. It truly is a treasured place just as it is. With the stresses in our world today we need places like this to get away and enjoy some low key bonding with nature. We don't want to see the old historical lodge and cabins torn down and made into anything big and fancy. This would change the entire charm of the lake. Much of the lake is inaccessible to the public as is and this may endanger the average people being able to enjoy the lake. I've been around plenty of areas completely changed by a wealthy enterprise coming in and influencing the dynamics of the place. Please don't let the Forest Service sell with intentions of this kind.

Thank you
