Comments: I visited Holland Lake last Summer for the first time. I could hardly believe the peaceful and lovely setting it offered me. I had last spent time on Flathead Lake and was disappointed at the crowds and noise there. Holland Lake was a welcome quiet relaxing spot. I enjoyed seeing young families on the beach area and quiet paddling on the lake. I noticed that it was a loon nesting location. I would be really opposed to any increased development on this fabulous resource. The proposed changes by a private contractor will completely erode the pristine beauty of this place. It will change the population of usage by Montanans to elite visitors. I think some places should be kept low key for local residents and tax payers. Increased traffic on this lake will negatively impact upon the local loon activity also.
