Comments: I have been going to Holland Lake Lodge since I was 4 years old. I am now 67 and my last visit was Labor Day weekend, 2022. I went to check in with my parents who honeymooned at the Lodge in 1944, and whose ashes were spread beside the Falls, and to say goodbye to the Lodge with all the changes afoot. The plans for an out of state corporation sweeping in and changing it up sounded ominous. I dug deeper and am won over. Let the sale go through, ban the jet skies and the snowmobiles, but improvements are needed and necessary. There hasn't been a visit that didn't coincide with septic issues. Not everyone wants to sleep in a tin can or can manage a tent. Some of us depend on a well run inn to give us the opportunity to be in a setting so beautiful. This corporate takeover will give that and more such as the bonus of a winter season. The carbon foot print of the new verses the old, with proper waste treatment, insulation, and density will be much smaller for more people to have a rare and life changing experience.

Thank you.
