Comments: As a born and raised Montanan I'm so sad to read about this. My family has camped in Holland lake many times over the years. I have also hiked this area. One of the things to do is visit the lodge and gift shop, the enjoyment is the age of the buildings. I don't know how this small area could handle a large influx of people. This would take in-depth environmental studies to see how the increase in sewage and water would affect the fish, wildlife, and people that live in this area. A project like this will affect Montanans from all over the state and out-of-state people who come to Holland lake for the beautiful hikes. Please do not push this through trust what Montanans have to say about this. Money isn't everything. If it moves forward this will affect Montanas for generations to come.
