Comments: I love hiking state and national forests, it doesn't impress me when entities or individuals make a decision to destroy parts of forests with parking lots and buildings.

Not only do you displace the natural resources of plants that are native to the land but you will also displace animals and insects native to the land. We are in a world where nature has rapidly been removed for the human benefit rather than the benefit of realizing that nature should remain as it is in our forests. Untouched, raw, and beautiful for the wildlife that exists within it and for hikers to enjoy.
