Comments: We grew up as the "Treasure State". Now we are losing our treasures to development. Tourists do bring needed income to our state, but we are in danger of losing our treasures and becoming a "resort or destination state." I believe this project would compromise the pristine beauty of Holland lake, not to mention destroying animal habitat by increasing human encroachment. The packing trail into the "Bob" is narrow and does not need to be widened by machinery. Traffic would increase into the Bob and the risk of littering increased. Ordinary Montanans would not be able to afford to stay in the resort...We are becoming a "refuge" for those flooding into Montana. I don't mind that, but then they stay and cause further degradation to our environment. Increasing population and development pose the risk of more wildfires. Money and power talks. I hope the Forest Service is not persuaded to allow this project.
