Comments: This project is exactly what Montanans do not want, nor is it what our state needs. There will always be power money that will try to come in and buy up our public lands, but at what cost? We as citizens on Montana are being priced out of our own state. It is a gentrification of our local population by the ultra wealthy and it is wrong.

Everything that makes Montana who she is, is a combination of our wild lands and our people.

I urge the Forest Service to choose Montanans over the out of state money that will always come in with their empty promises for our state.

Montana deserves better.
