Comments: I don't think anyone can say it better than Christian Wohlfeil himself:

"Let's face it, there aren't many places you can walk out on a point, see two snow-capped mountain ranges, a stunning waterfall and virtually no development," - Christian Wohlfeil, Missoula Magazine 2010

Holland Lake is not the place for the kind of development proposed and the Forest Services owes the American public better than to allow this expansion. What makes this place special is "virtually no development"... straight out of the developers mouth.

You have an opportunity here to do the right thing. Please.
