Comments: What an awful thing this development would be. The lake is already small and loaded with those using it. The reason people come to Holland Lake, the Lodge, and the surrounding area is because it's quiet, peaceful, out of the way, and not a commercial recreational resort. Not every beautiful, serene area of Montana needs or wants a resort - in fact, it's not about Montanans, it's about out-of-state developer. The fact that the developer is from Park City, UT should be an in-your-face clue that they have no intention of keeping the area as those using it would like.

This is about money and greed.
