Comments: To say Holland Lake is extraordinary is an understatement. This lake is the personification of crystal clear Montana perfection. Watching the selling off of Montana that has progressed in the last two years has been difficult, but Holland Lake falling to the hands of development is particularly heartbreaking. Making a profit from land is inevitable, but there should be areas preserved for the enjoyment of all and not just a select few who can afford it. Please consider a full environmental assessment and limit the footprint to current disturbed area. Also please consider the additional lake pressure that so many more guests would cause. So many have moved to Montana because excessive development has made their previous homes unlivable or undesirable. Please don't let that happen to Montana's most precious areas. Thank you.
