Comments: This project, and future projects that could stem from this one should it be approved, would have big and long-lasting environmental and ecological impacts to the grizzly bear population. The grizzly bear population as well as other sensitive species native to the area including the bull trout. Condon and the surrounding areas are essentially the backcountry. Putting in a large development that will bring inexperienced, naive tourists in close proximity to such wild and rugged country will be putting both tourists and wildlife at unnecessary levels of danger. This development project should not be allowed to proceed.
