Comments: The Forest Service job should be trying to protect our precious natural resources, not destroying them. They shouldn't cut down our precious trees and destroy the natural beauty of this place. Who ever is the steward of this place for the Forest Service should be fired. There needs to be an environmental impact report and proper public awareness for projects like this. A project like this shouldn't be rushed through as once the landscape is destroyed it's gone forever. Please don't push this through without at least a 6 month to a year for the public review process after all the proper studies have been completed. This also needs to be properly publicized through many channels to make the public aware and get their feedback. We have to quit destroying all the wonderful old world charm and landscapes to make everything a playground for the uber wealthy. Ask yourself who this new projects demographic is and I guarantee it is for the top 10-15% income earners in this country. Our national forests are for everyone to enjoy, not just the rich. If they don't want to come there now because it's not fancy enough, they have plenty of 5 star resorts they can go to. We have to quit destroying mother nature.
