Comments: I moved to Montana to get away from corporate greed and explosive population growth. I came from an area in which the city I lived in was encased in over 8 million people in a 7 county metro area. My county alone had a population of over 1 million. I have watched these past years that I have been in Montana, with companies and private 'investors' are flaunting large dollar amounts with hollow promises. The Holland Lake area is one of the many pristine portions of the Montana legacy. I have copied part of comments that were entered earlier concerning this EXPANSION

" It most definitely will impact the area,

- wildlife habitat, and the lake more than the existing resort does.
- There will be more sewer and water use.
- There will be more traffic on area roads.
- There will be more foot traffic on trails and in the permitted area.
- There will be fewer trees.
- There will be more noise.
- There will be disruption to wildlife corridors and habitat.
- There will be more conflict between humans and wildlife."

Most definitely will be a total environmental impact : Land use, wildlife and all natural resources.

More studies need to be done to try to insure the project in this large scope is the best way forward.

Perhaps not this large, not this place !
