Comments: Montana is losing its unique and beautiful culture due to the invasion of out of state investors who think we want to make Montana like every other big city resort. Montanans who have lived their lives here do NOT want to see this destruction of our quaint beauty take place. We need to preserve the solitude and elegance of our natural world. Montana should not become the next playground for the rich! Many long time residents have already been run out. Most of the new rich who recently moved to our state just buy up big places and either subdivide or fence it off and close access to average Montanans. Holland Lake has been a serene spot which fills the soul. Leave it be to continue to be available to locals and those who cherish old Montana.
