Comments: I grew up in Seeley Lake and Holland Lake Lodge and area has always been a place to go because of the lack of major development. From water recreation, hiking, berry picking, to accessing the Bob Marshall, the Holland area has been an area to be enjoyed by all with minimum impact to the area. More development will alter the primitive state of Holland and reduce access and use for those who are not affluent enough to afford to use the lodge. Also the increased boat traffic allows for greater risk of invasive species to be introduced harming the pristine ecosystem of the lake. Also adds to water and noise pollution to the area. This plan is an attack on Montana, its lands, her people, and our rich history of the Swan Valley
