Comments: I just heard about this the other day, I think it's a horrible idea and the fact that it's even in question is sad. Locals are already being priced out of where we grew up, do you think this will make it better? I don't understand. We live in a beautiful place, people come to visit because it's a beautiful place, the more corporations want to cash in, the more it changes our beautiful state! Let's just suck the life out of our home so a few people can cash in on the natural beauty our state offers. I work away from home because of how expensive everything has become, it saddens me to spend so much time away to afford my family the opportunity to live where we grew up and love just to watch the life being sucked out of it one dollar at a time. My heart hurts that this is even an issue. What's been lost is lost, can we please try and save what's left?
