Comments: I'm writing this in hopes that this vulgar attempt at ruining yet another Montana destination is stopped. Is nothing sacred anymore? Are we, as humans, just okay with letting our greed get the best of us and turning something so pristine into an overcrowded tourist trap? My family has been coming to Holland Lake since my grandma was a child. We pack up and for a week and enjoy a blissful, electronic-free vacation with one another. If there is any good sense left in the state, I beg you reconsider this proposal, this place is special to so many people, we've watched it change so much over the years and quite frankly, it doesn't need any more changes made to it.
