Comments: Everyone has the right to enjoy the wilderness. Everyone has the right to the great outdoors, to fresh water, to open spaces, to be amongst the trees and hills and lakes. Everyone- its why we have so much public land.

Allowing this land to be turned into a modern resort with prices reflecting an entirely alien economy to MT will in effect bar residents from experiencing it. With prices rising everywhere we dont need another high end luxury anything, we need places that live up to the idea that everyone has the right to experience our world.

The destruction of this historic site would be a travesty. If the new owners do not wish to preserve its legacy and maintain accessibility I ask that we suggest they sell the rights to someone who will.
