Comments: I recreate at Holland Lake every summer due to its seemingly pristine quality that it holds. Yeah, sure, there are a few structures that exist along the shoreline, but they currently don't take away from the beauty of this serene area. People need places like this that are accessible to visit without the compromise of being ruined by over-development. Holland lake is a gem and it would be an absolute shame to see some out-of-state company come in, de-tree the shoreline and potentially harm the ecosystem that the wildlife depend on, just for some fancy lodge that only the rich can afford.

Please don't let someone else's greed destroy what makes Montana so special.
