Comments: It is beyond distressing to see yet another treasured and invaluable piece of Montana being sold to elites. I moved to this piece of paradise 11 years ago because I truly believed it was the Last Best Place. But over the past decade, I've seen heart-breaking changes as the local government has turned a blind eye to developers who have exploited the natural beauty that makes this place so special.

There will never be another Montana, and money can only buy so much. Once our natural environment has been spoiled, there is no turning back.

I implore you to reject this request to develop Holland Lake and honor your fiduciary duty as custodians of the landscape and wildlife of this great state.

Please say NO.
