Comments: So, my main question is this. If big corporations are allowed to come in and privatize giant sections of our natural resources, where does that leave the rest of us that can't afford to stay at their resort? Me and my father have fished most of the lakes in the Seeley region since I was a small child. I have followed suit and taken both of my children up there to catch their first fish as well. Now I am probably the last person to ask on the rules and details of how these transaction occur, but is anybody representing the people who have used these lakes for generations? Are these corporation required to keep the local traditions alive? Seems to me that would only be fair, as they are obviously going to make huge profits off of this adventure. Shouldn't they also help make sure that traditions such as my family's are going to continue? I completely understand that they have every right to buy and monetize this parcel. I just want to make sure the voice of the common person that has lived their entire lives in the area is heard as well.
