Comments: So sad that the magic of Holland Lake Lodge and its pristine surroundings are going to be commercially developed. This is a place that makes Montana what we know it for: simple, unobtrusive woodland lodging and alpine lake splendor. Protecting this special area from high-end construction and the attitudes that are common in overbuilt states in the west is imperative to keeping this beautiful place a state treasure for many generations to come. I have been, hiking, camping, swimming, and enjoying this forested wonderland since the mid 1970's... I hate to see that money is more important than preserving this special nook in our NW Montana mountains.
