The new plans for the Holland Lake Lodge are more harmful than beneficial. The new plans are going to butcher the landscape of a beautiful lake. It's completely unneeded development. We need to keep Montana wild. Traffic in this area in summer may get hectic at times and "it's hard to find camping spots when they're all taken" but, with the new development of the lodge and lake front, we're turning the lake into a "destination". This will only worsen the traffic. The trails that run up to upper Holland lake are already overflowing. I know I'm not the best at getting a point across but please, for the sake of Montana, do not let this big time company ruin what is such a special area.

Thank you.
