Comments: I don't know what I can add to the comments I have read so far. And I agree with almost all of them. This is not a small-scale project. The overnight capacity of Holland Lake Lodge will triple, if I understand correctly, from 50 guests a night to 150. That is three times the number of people on the trails, three times the number of cars on Holland Lake Rd., three times the amount of waste that needs to be disposed of. And, again if I understand correctly, all of this without the benefit of an environmental impact study. I have hiked many times to Upper Holland Lake. There are so many rocky outcrops that you can sit on and take in Holland Lake below and the Missions in the distance and think you have left civilization behind. The Swan Range is such a wild and pristine place. Why threaten it through short-sighted development that may very well be followed by other such projects?
