Comments: Growing up in Helena MT, taking trips to Holland Lake are truly some of my fondest memories. Its easy accessibility yet uniquely secluded feel meant that all can enjoy its natural beauty. Holland lake is an perfect example of a place that feels perfectly content and almost frozen in time due to the small amount of structures and lovingly maintained areas, which I believe remain that way thanks to the immense respect of the people who visit this amazing place. The thought of such and incredible placing being so heavily altered to make way for all new construction, destroying that which makes Holland Lake so special is devastating to me. Holland Lake is a treasure and it should be protected. A place where all are welcome so long as you treat this magical place with respect. People who visit there know that there's no other place in the world quite like Holland lake and it's best kept as is.
