Comments: I have a very deep connection to Holland Lake Lodge, and hate seeing the expansion and development plans of an out-of-state multi-million dollar company that has no regard for the environmental impacts they will cause from this expansion. I fear that once POWDR gets their foot in the door, there will be no stopping them from turning this once beautiful getaway into a mega-amusement park with ski lifts and fancy shops that will devastate the surrounding environment. Holland Lake has been a place to get away from the city lights and enjoy nature in its purest form, I fear that there won't be many places like this left in the near future. I stand against the expansion of Holland as I know many fellow Montanans do as well, and would hate to see a once beautiful getaway destination turned into a lavish luxury resort, while at the same time destroying the surrounding wildlife which are the true owners of the land.
