Comments: Holland lake is much too small to accommodate the amount of extra people expanding the lodge would bring. I have been going to Holland lake since before I remember with my family at our cabin. Over the years the lake has gotten busier and busier I understand why people want to go. What I can't get past is the fact that it wouldn't in any way help the wilderness if anything fix the existing cabins and update the existing lodge maintain them... don't ruin the beauty of the area by adding and expanding. The whole point of going to a lodge not a hotel in town is that it's secluded and more like living on the land adding more cabins and a bigger lodge to house more and more people takes away from that. The expansion needs to be put to bed it's wrong for the area!
