Comments: I hesitate to write this letter because I believe the forest service in this instance is accepting bribery in a situation that is clearly contrary to the good of the forest, ecosystem, and community. I don't have any faith that my comment will be read or considered, because of how absolutely obvious the bribery in this situation is.. Our area of Montana is struggling with the current amount of tourism. We don't have the infrastructure in place to support it. Our fire departments, sheriffs departments, schools, highways - all of them are seriously understaffed and underfunded for the amount of humans we've had in Western Montana in the last few years. Our forests are full of trash now. We can't handle the tourism we currently have, so there is absolutely no benefit to projects that solely "promote tourism." I own multiple businesses that depend on tourism, and am well acquainted with many other business owners in the area. None of us are looking for more tourism. We don't have the employees and resources to keep up with the tourists we have now. This is an absolutely flagrant display of dishonesty on the part of the Forest Service, and there is no other explanation that makes logical sense than bribery. Whomever is accepting the bribe I'm sure has justified it to themselves. This is clear greed with zero benefit to the community or forest, and a massively negative impact. I actually looked at buying the property this hotel is on when it came for sale, specifically just so this wouldn't happen. I thought I was being paranoid though, that there was no way the Forest Service would allow this kind of development. Apparently I was not paranoid enough, and I put far too much faith in the Forest Service. As a local business owner and developer I would be happy to buy this property at what it was listed, and leave it at the impact it currently has. I imagine plenty of other business owners in the area feel the same way. I have cash on hand. It would be my pleasure to buy it for what they paid from them, and then refuse to impact the community and forest in any detrimental way. There are 0 logical reasons to do this, besides bribery. And that is absolutely despicable.
