Comments: Since my daughter and son-in-law have live in Seeley Lake for the last 20+yrs, the area has been a family destination for that long including camping and hiking and swimming at the Iconic Holland Lake. Though the lodge and property do really need some sprucing up, does that mean at the cost of loosing the charm. It already is a small intimate location so adding all the extra buildings and unimaginative mall like parking areas seems to scar the rustic wilderness ambiance. Hopefully when a NEPA study is done there can be more clarity as to how to accomplish a suitable renovation for this lovely place. But as the plans stand now there are too many high density housing units and parking spaces. Marilyn Grover
